Spanish-Mediterranean, Once Again!

The most enduring and recurring classic style of the Southwest, Spanish-Mediterranean keeps delivering waves of revival and now may be more popular than ever. The true classics built in the last century work best with these equally classic neutral color schemes. However, now many new versions of the style are popping up all over the countryside in the tract homes of planned communities. For those homes, the need to express more individuality should be answered with deliberately bold accent colors.

-  Alkali-Sensitive: Colors that are more likely to fade early when used on highly alkaline surfaces, such as new masonry.
-  Interior Use Only: Colors with a low resistance to the sun's ultraviolet (UV) rays, causing them to fade.
-  Low Hide: Colors that are more transparent and may require multiple coats.
-  Historic: Colors that are historically accurate.

The Art of the Craftsman

Big porches, deep eaves, intricate woodwork, built-in cabinets in every nook and cranny – these are just some of the features that make the Craftsman style so fascinating and fun. In turn, color schemes for these wonderful homes deliver delight and appeal along with a big challenge in doing justice to the architectural features. Contrasting colors will really enhance the impact of the thick woodwork. Muted colors and earthtones work well with the natural materials often used for foundations, porch piers and floors.

Victorian Magnificence

This is probably the most distinct and head-turning architectural style of the American Southwest. Victorian homeowners are a rare breed who truly appreciate the tremendous amount of skilled work that goes into the ornate decorative fit and trim of a classic Victorian. Color schemes are equally complex and inspired to bring out all of the intricate detailed patterns. Often referred to as “gingerbread,” there is no limit to the creativity of the architectural decoration that trims these magnificent homes.

COLOR CHIPS AND PAINT: These color chips are produced as accurately as possible; however, actual paint colors may vary from these samples and from batch to batch. Paint colors are affected by many factors, including lighting, age, type of finish, type of surface and adjacent colors. Some colors may require more than one coat for complete coverage. If final color appearance and color matches are critical, paint should be sampled on the actual surface before full application. Application of the paint constitutes acceptance of the color. Dunn-Edwards assumes no responsibility for color after application.
